1. BACKGROUND INFORMATION

1.1 Partner country and procuring entity.

Southern African Development Community (SADC Secretariat).

1.2 Contracting authority

Southern African Development Community Secretariat (SADC Secretariat).

1.3 Background

The Southern African Development Community (SADC) is a Regional Economic Community comprising 16 Member States, namely: Angola, Botswana, Comoros, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Eswatini, Lesotho, Madagascar, Malawi, Mauritius, Mozambique, Namibia, Seychelles, South Africa, Tanzania, Zambia, Zimbabwe.

Southern Africa is highly susceptible to the impacts of climate change. In coming decades, it is forecasted that the SADC region would experience higher land and ocean surface temperatures than in the past, which will affect rainfall, winds, and the timing and intensity of weather events. Climate change poses several risks to SADC goals for regional economic development. Increased frequency of floods, cyclones, and droughts may damage infrastructure, destroy agricultural crops, disrupt livelihoods, and cause loss of life. This highlights the importance of early warning information for early action to reduce risks, losses and optimize on opportunities. In addition, the socio-economic effects of climate events need to be accounted for in development projects.

This ToR is intended to introduce the SEB analysis of the climate services within the region, to enhance the understanding the effects of climate events on regional economy.

1.4 Current situation in Meteorology Sector (Background)

The (SADC) region is known to be susceptible to volatile weather. This condition imposes innumerable risks in the development of multi-sectoral activities, such as agriculture, power generation and infrastructure, jeopardizing the socioeconomic security within the region. The development of the meteorology sector and its associated climate services is one of the components to support decision-makers to take adequate actions towards weather informed and resilient economy to face the adverse conditions imposed by Climate Change.

Over the last four years, SADC Meteorology sector has been implementing the ClimSA project in collaboration of the OACPS Secretariat and the European Union, with support of the EU 11th development funds. The overall objective of the project was essentially to strengthen the climate service value chain through building the capacities of decision-makers at all levels to make effective use of the climate information and services, in SADC region.

National Meteorological and Hydrological Services (NMHS) have the mandate and have been providing weather, climate, ocean and hydrological products and services to their communities over many decades. Such service has reduced the number of casualties during weather and climate extreme events over the years, but the economic losses remain significantly high. The services provided by NMHSs' continues to expand over the years, to cover weather and climate sensitive sectors such as Agriculture, Water, Energy, Health and Disaster Risk Reduction.

Currently, limited work has been done to assess the economic value including the social benefits and impacts of climate services to sectors and communities in the region. It is against this background that, the SADC ClimSA activities includes the assessment of the impact of climate services including the socio-economic benefit analysis of climate services for the region.

Socio-economic benefit is fundamental to understand if the provision of climate services makes any difference in the cost or revenues for Member States.

This tender is intended to contract an expert to undertake the socio-economic benefit analysis on climate services in the region.

1.5 Related programmes and other donor activities
